REP. RUNNERS

The petty demands on party funds was something enormous. "On election day the Republican management absolutely refused to hire a lot of runners and virtually pay for their votes. The campaign management was willing to employ men in the preliminary campaign as precinct workers, detailed from headquarters and with their work under the eye of the precinct committee. But this party would not pay, as has been done in elections past, five hundred or a thousand men on election day, who under the guise of workers secretly cast their vote and perhaps 'swayed' a little for the party. Of course the Republicans lost by this policy. I know, in spite of what the Democrats say, that in some instances the Democrats did hire these election day runners.

"This campaign saw the passing of the paid runner system in the Republican party of this county. It will be opposed two years from now if any Republican leader wishes to continue the system. It will be opposed by those who were in charge this year and know that the runners were taking money from the Republican party and working as hard as they could for the Democrats."

The suit against the goods was civil, while the suit against the woman called for hearing this morning, was criminal. To the charge in the latter she withdrew her original plea of not guilty and entered a plea of contumacious.

HORSE VICTIM OF CRUELTY

Jose Morales was one of the three city and county prisoners who had been sent to the upper extension of Fort street to assist in road building operations, who found that his efforts applied in the direction of attempting to remodel a piebald truck horse into a racing steed, failed to meet with approval of not only the owner of the animal, but also the marked displeasure of the authorities.

Charged with denuding an equine of a generous portion of a caudal appendage, Morales a recent arrival from the "Sun-kissed Philippines" was charged with the unlawful and cruel use of a knife in cutting the tail of a horse.

Two Filipino companions of Morales employed in the same gang of prisoners testified that the Filipino attempt to sell the remnant of horseflesh for the sum of fifty cents.

Falling in his purpose, a general row ensued which caused the guard to hasten to the scene.

Judge Monsarrat at District court was confronted with the brutal, decoration to man's faithful friend, the horse as exhibit "A." Following a hearing, of the case the Filipino was Hotel Anah.

Police records show that Morales was sent to the reef on September 28th charged with stealing one or more bicycles. He is serving six months at the Iwilei resort.

J. J. Combs in the role of owner of a row of tenements, was a complaining witness at district court this morning appearing against Mrs. Tony Morris, whom Combs alleged attempted to use force in her attempt to eject the landlord from the premises, when he called there the other day on business.

From the story unfolded to Judge Monsarrat, a little family party was in progress when as a sort of spectre at the feast, the owner of the tenement loomed upon the scene of joyousness. Combs was told to betake himself elsewhere, and failing to obey the mandate from his tenant, claimed that he was roughly treated. The fair tenant was asked to settle a fine of three dollars.

Tom Patterson, charged with assault and battery failed to put in an appearance at court this morning and a bench warrant was promptly issued for the delinquent defendant.

TRIAL OF SMUGGLING CASE AGAIN DELAYED

A session of the United States Federal Court will be called Monday November 25, to set the date for the hearing of the case of Chris Carageorge, who was indicted August 31, charged with smuggling opium into the territory. The hearing will probably be delayed for some time owing to the fact that Carageorge was taken to the hospital yesterday to be treated for tonsillitis and eye trouble.

Carageorge, who was fourth officer on the Mongolia at the time of her arrival at this port August 28, was implicated in the affair by George Chronos, who walked off the boat with ten tons of the drug in a suitcase. When he was caught with it by the customs officials and questioned as to where he got it, he alleged that Carageorge had asked him to carry the drug ashore.

GENERAL TO SEE

platoons of the First and Second Infantry and the Fifth Cavalry will work out several interesting problems before the department commander, and considering that the operation of machine guns in a war strength organization is comparatively new in the United States army, more than ordinary interest attaches to the test.

For a week past the board of officers consisting of First Lieutenant Jackson, and Second Lieutenants Groinger and Mitchell, have been at work with the automatic rifles on various problems of attack and defense, and the results have been gratifyingly satisfactory.

Lieutenant Joseph Kay, Second Infantry, is the senior of the three machine gun platoon commanders. Lieutenant Jackson, the president of the board, not being connected with the platoons of any regiment here, although himself an expert on machine gun fire.

That the new Benet-Mercie automatics, on account of their extreme mobility, are more effective in doing rapid damage than was generally known, has been amply proved by the machine gun company. It is conceded by military experts that Colonel McGunagle did a big thing for the development of the automatics when he took advantage of the somewhat unusual opportunity of combining three platoons at one post.

General Macomb will motor out to Schofield tomorrow morning, leaving the city at 8 o'clock. He will be accompanied by Lieutenant Colonel Raymond, the new sanitary inspector of the department, and by Major Conklin, general staff, and Lieutenant Andrews, aide.

Captain Ralph B. Lister, First Infantry, has been detailed to the quartermaster corps, with instructions to report to headquarters of this department for duty December 1. At the present time it is not known where Captain Lister will be stationed, or which one of the present quartermasters he will relieve. Captains Gamco, Cooke and Edwards are all due for relief at any time, and Captain Lister may be taking the place of one of these. It is also possible that he may be an additional Q. M. for the department, to take the place of Captain Watkins as post quartermaster at Schofield. It is only a question of time until a regular member of the corps takes over the work of the big post, which Captain Watkins has so efficiently held down in addition to his duties as regimental quartermaster, which post he held until November 1.
